

Embarrassing searches shouldn't contaminate browsing history

Searches for
"Asking For A Friend"

There has to be a better way!

NEW! "Asking For A Friend" Google search mode.

- Like private browsing, searches do not contaminate search history!
- Uses machine learning
  - Learns your friends
  - Guesses which of your friends would do this search
  - Automatically adds this search and subsequent browsing to the friend's browsing history!

How to turn off Slack notifications?

When will my code finish executing?

print '\n'.join("%i Byte = %i Bit = largest number: %i" % (j, j*8, 256j-1) for j in (1 << i for i in xrange(8)))

Is there food in the kitchen right now?

How to set email filter based on sender?

The screenshot shows an email inbox with a search bar at the top containing the filter 'from:lazowska@cs.washington.edu'. Below the search bar are several action buttons: a minus sign, a plus sign, an exclamation mark, a trash can, 'Move to Inbox', a tag icon, and a 'More' dropdown menu. The 'More' menu is open, showing options: 'Mark as unread', 'Mark as not important', 'Add to Tasks', 'Add star', 'Filter messages like these' (highlighted), 'Mute', and 'Create filter'. The inbox list below shows three emails from Ed Lazowska. The second email, '[Researchers] UW/Facebook', is highlighted in yellow. The third email, 'Re: [Researchers] Toyota? - nyuk nyu...', is partially visible. The interface also shows a grid icon, a notification bell, a profile picture 'C', and pagination '1-26 of 26' with navigation arrows and a settings gear.
